'Farm to Table'

June 12 event brings education, philanthropy together for a cause

By Lori Sorenson

Farmers are educating the community about safe and humane food production and charitable groups are seeking new ways to raise money for good causes.

The two efforts will join forces next month for a "Farm to Table" event to accomplish education and fundraising goals.

The Luverne Area Community Foundation (LACF) and the Rock County Corn and Soybean Growers will host a meal at 5:30 p.m. Sunday, June 12, at The Bluestem.

Chef Skyler Hoiland will create a four-course meal featuring locally grown food.

Between courses and drinks important topics in agriculture and food supply will be discussed:

•Water quality and buffer strips in Rock County

•Organic farming and the food supply

New food labeling and GMOs
 Foundation director Emily Cral

Foundation director Emily Crabtree said she's looking forward to the event as a collaborative effort for farmers and fundraisers.

"We've been working on how the foundation can reach the ag community, and the Corn and Soybean Growers came to me and said what if we did an educational event?" Crabtree said.

The $40 ticket includes the meal and locally featured beer or wine, and proceeds go to the foundation, which supports a number of local causes.

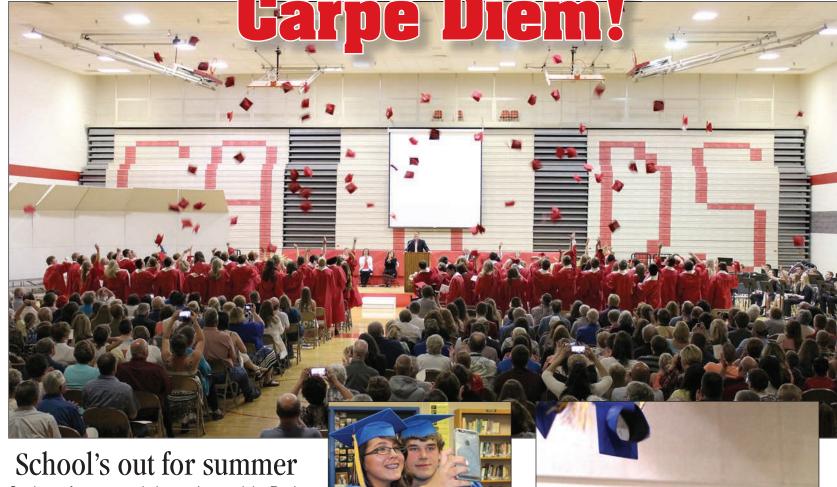

Lucas Peters of the Rock County Corn and Soybean Growers said he's looking forward to helping the foundation and reaching new community members.

"We saw this event as an opportunity to help the fundraising efforts of the LACF and have a conversation with people about what local farmers are doing to grow food safely for local residents and a growing population," Peters said.

He said guest speakers will address GMOs and new labeling requirements and how local landowners are protecting water quality. They'll also answer questions from attendees.

"Holding the event at The Bluestem is a great way to show how farmers are growing food for local residents," Peters said. "And a creative menu will emphasize the use of corn and soybeans."

LHS guidance counselor reflects on 30 years

By Jason Berghorst

Each year, in his role as Luverne High School counselor, Craig Nelson gives LHS freshmen a list of careers.

The list includes college professor, Mars exploration scientist, director of scouting for an NFL team, retractable stadium engineer, professional dancer and Big Ten Coach, among others.

Nelson then asks the students what all of these careers have in common. The answer often surprises the students.

All of these occupations are currently held by Luverne High School graduates living all around the country.

"I tell them people doing these jobs sat in these same desks, walked in these same halls and had the same teachers as our current students," Nelson said.

"My goal has always been that when you leave LHS, you can do whatever you want for the next 50 years of your life," he said.

"Whether it be a four-year college, technical school, the military or a good job."

Nelson, who grew up in Sioux Falls and graduated from the University of South Dakota in Vermillion, came to Luverne in the fall of 1984. He began his career in Waubay, South Dakota, where he was a teacher, counselor and coach for two years before beginning his 32-year career as counselor and coach in Luverne.

"I wanted to get closer to the Sioux Falls area," Nelson said. "I still remember driving into Luverne for the interview. It's hard to believe it's been 32 years."

Nelson is retiring from Luverne schools at the end of this school year.

In his first years in Luverne, Nelson worked primarily as the counselor for grades 9-12 with some responsibilities at the elementary level before the district

Sampson monument to be dedicated May 30

By Lori Soreson

In the cemeteries of Rock County, there's a story for every flag and veteran's marker. Some have been told before and others are known only to a few.

Father Francis Sampson, who is buried in St. Catherine

Cemetery, is relatively unknown to local residents, but his story of service in World War II was told through the 1998 Academy Awardwinning movie, "Saving Private Ryan," with Tom Hanks.

After Monday's 4 p.m. Memorial Day mass at St. Catherine Cemetery, parishioners will gather at Sampson's graveside to dedicate a new stone monument in honor of the distinguished war hero. The 6-foot-tall quartzite monument displays a bronze plaque that tells the story of Sampson's military career.

Sampson was a military chaplain known for staying with the enlisted men he served ... and that included jumping with the paratroopers into dangerous places.

In June 1944 he jumped as the Normandy Invasion began.

He was captured, escaped and then stayed with 14 wounded men as the Americans pulled back from counterattacking Germans. He was wounded. He earned the Distinguished Service Cross for his efforts.

He returned to England, jumped again into Holland, was captured in Belgium and was imprisoned in Germany until Father Sampson, who was ordained as a priest in 1941, served as an Army chaplain from 1942 until he retired in 1971. In addition to serving in World War II, he also served in Korea and Vietnam.

During his military career, he rose to the rank of major general and chief of chaplains, and he was awarded over 18 medals and honors for his exemplary service to the United States and the world.

He wrote two books about his military chaplain career. His autobiography, "Look Out Below," served as inspiration for the 1998 movie, "Saving Private Ryan." His other book is called "Paratrooper Padre."

Sampson always said he saw a direct connection between being a priest and a soldier. "They are both called to the identical things," he wrote.

"That is the preservation of peace, the establishment of justice when it has been lost, and the providing of security with protection for the weak and the innocent."

Sampson went on to serve the USO and as a priest in the Diocese of Sioux Falls.

Born in 1912 in Cherokee, Iowa, he died Jan. 28, 1996, in Sioux Falls. He chose St. Catherine Cemetery because his mother was buried there. In one of his books he wrote that his mother, who died in 1942 in Oregon, wanted to be buried in $Luverne\,because\,she\,was\,born$ and spent her childhood there. It was "the place she always called 'home,' the place she loved above all others."

Sampson is buried next to his mother, Philomena Ryan, and her sister, Gertrude Ryan.

Sampson's father ran a hotel in Luverne, and his mother worked there, too. Sampson attended high school in Sioux Falls and Portland, Oregon, before graduating from Notre Dame in 1937.

The monument will be dedicated in St. Catherine Cemetery in Luverne Monday after the 4 p.m. Memorial Day Mass. The monument project is funded by the Knights of Columbus and the LCCW.

Carnegie Cultural Center soon to be home to Luverne Street Music students, teachers

By Lori Sorenson

Remodeling work on the historic Carnegie Cultural Center continues into spring, and Luverne City Council members toured the building last week to check progress.

Luverne Building Inspector Chad McClure has been overseeing the project and answered questions during the May 17 tour.

He said he's learned a few things about historic preservation along the way. For example, he anticipated matching the new woodwork with the existing 1902 trim, but that won't happen.

"They want the old to look old and the new to look new," McClure said.

In February the City Council approved a 10-year agreement with Luverne Street Music to lease the city-owned Carnegie Cultural Center.

The non-profit music agency that connects private music instructors with interested students took over the Carnegie building on North directors say they're dedicated at the Feb. 23 council meeting.

In line with that vision, the Carnegie's main floor has essentially been left in its open format accented by arched windows and heavy wood trim.

The bulk of the construction work has centered on the basement where walls for five rooms have been reinforced with soundproofing layers and insulation for individual, simultaneous music lessons.

There will also be a central room with a small kitchenette, the restrooms are being redone, and an area of the basement has been finished with a future elevator in mind.

The renovations are being done by Tom Nergaard, Luverne, and are estimated to cost $91,000.

Among the improvements are plumbing and electrical updates that would have been necessary regardless of who's leasing the building.

The new lease agreement of $300 per month rent will generate $3,600 per year for the city. This compares with $900 peryear generated by the previous CAHRC lease.

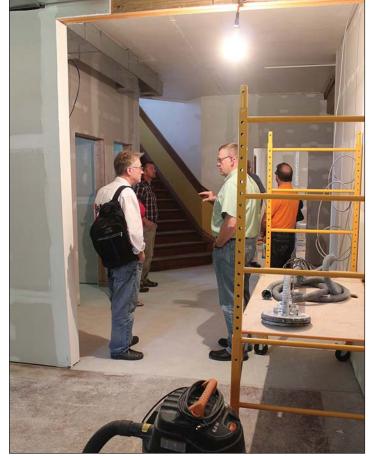

The city is responsible for maintenance and upkeep of the historic building, and these costs amounted to more than $30,000 in the past two years

The city will also provide snow removal and mowing, in addition to utilities, at no added expense to LSM.

LSM will keep the building neat and clean and will carry general liability and personal property insurance.

They said the LSM program has grown from 30 students and four teachers in 2013 to 100 students and 16 teachers today.

The curriculum includes summer music camp, a children's choir, a pre-school string program and a chamber orchestra, with a puppet theater camp on the horizon.

The Rock County Transfer Station will be open on the third Saturday of the month in June, July, and August.

Transfer Station is open the following dates: Saturday, June 18 Saturday, July 16 Saturday, August 20

Saturday hours are 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Guess who's the honorary Relay for Life chairperson this year?

This year's American Cancer Society Relay for Life in Rock County is Friday, June 10, and guess who's the honorary chairperson?

Yup. I am. When Merecie Domagala (the real chairperson who does all the work) asked me if I'd accept this honorary position, without hesitation I offered an enthusiastic "Yes! I'd love to." I said yes for two reasons. One, I get to ride in a convertible in the Buffalo Days Parade. This has been a lifelong dream of mine, waving to the adoring minions while doing the perfect princess wave. "Elbow. Wrist. Elbow. Wrist. Touch your pearls and blow a kiss." As a cancer adventurer I know it would be wrong to throw sugar-laced candy to the children, so I'm planning on tossing broccoli florets instead. (The sooner children learn that life is filled with disappointment, the better off they'll be.)

I haven't yet received all the parade information, but I think I'll be placed somewhere between the firetruck and the two kids on a lawn mower pulling their little brother in a wagon.

The second reason I said yes to this wonderful opportunity is because I thought I got to be supreme ruler of Rock County for a day. This turned out to be incorrect.

I was already drawing up plans to reroute the bike path, re-rename The Lake, bring back the crossing guards, pave County Road 15, (it goes to my parents' house and we get our car dirty driving there) and rescind all federal school lunch guidelines in county schools. I was a teeny bit disappointed to learn that I just need to make a brief speech to the audience gathered in the City Park on June 10.

Don't get me wrong — I'm happy to do it. I just thought being the honorary Relay For Life chairperson came with a little more responsibility.

OK, all kidding aside, it really is an honor to serve as the honorary chairperson for this year's Relay for Life. Sadly there are hundreds of other local cancer adventurers who are "qualified" to fill the position. There is nothing special about the annual honorary chair. He or she is just one more person with cancer.

One of the things the American Cancer Society does is fund research looking for the cure for

I always used to say, "I don't want a cure for cancer. I just don't want to get it in the first place." That philosophy didn't work out very well, but not getting cancer in the first place is still the best way to "cure" cancer.

If you drink, drink in moderation. Quit smoking. Exercise. Lose weight. Eat real food. De-

And come to the City Park June 10 to walk and remember our friends, family and neighbors who have died from this disease and to show love and support for those still on the journey.

We would appreciate it.

What would Rock County be like today had it not been for sacrifices of those before us?

We have life pretty good here in Rock County, with relative peace and prosperity that we tend to take for granted.

We don't worry where our next meal will come from and we don't fear enemy attacks on our community.

When we turn on the light switch and water faucet, we don't give it another thought when the lights go on and water fills the sink.

When we get in the car, we assume it will start and that the local gas stations will have affordable gas when we need to refill.

We can trust that our roads and bridges are stable and secure, and we think nothing of crisscrossing the state by car or flying in a plane crosscountry or across the globe.

While some of our residents have fewer luxuries than the rest of us, it's safe to say that even the poorest and most destitute resident in Rock County is still far better off than the average resident in a war-torn community or better still than the average refugee displaced by war and violence.

Yes, we are a blessed nation and we in Rock County are blessed to assume life's little luxuries will be here tomorrow and into the future.

But we should never, ever take our peace and prosperity for granted, and Monday — Memorial Day — will be a great time to thank those who made our current lifestyle possible.

Without the sacrifices of military service men and women dating back to our nation's founding, who knows where our allegiances might lie? Who knows what kind of leadership would dictate our nation's future?

The world and our nation might be a very different place — one without reliable infrastructure and services and one without safety and security.

Thanks to many, many American servicemen and women, we live in a free nation that fosters the lifestyle we've grown to appreciate

Šo, on Monday while we're enjoying a day off from work and gathering with loved ones for an outdoor barbecue, pause to remember that freedom isn't free.

It came with a great cost. And we must always remember

And be forever grateful.

Applications sought for school safety patrol camp

Q: My son is involved in school patrol at his school and I would like to know more about Legionville School Patrol Camp.

A: There is a lot of information about Legionville School Patrol Training Camp. The Camp is where school patrol students are taught the fundamentals of school patrol, school bus safety, bicycle and pedestrian safety. It is located just north of Brainerd, and it operated by the American Legion, using State Patrol Troopers as instructors. I will be one of the instructors again this year.

Students who will be 10 years old before Sept. 1 and not older than 13 years will be accepted. Exceptions to this restriction can be made but must be cleared in advance through the American Legion. Legionville is currently taking applications.

Legionville will be celebrating 78 years of instruction. It actually started 80 years ago in 1936, but because of World War II, class was canceled in 1942 & 1943. The 'old familiar barn' is gone and a new one has been built.

By Sgt. Troy Christianson, Minnesota State Patrol

1920, when Sister Carmella asked the older boys to help the younger children cross the streets from school in St. Paul.

EarleBrown(former Minnesota Governor and former Minnesota "Highway Patrol" Chief), formalized the program and got the Highway Patrol (now called Minnesota State Patrol since about 1974) involved with the instruction at the Earle BrownFarmintheTwinCities.Based on records from American Legion personnel, the training locations also included the Crow Wing County Fairgrounds, Camp Ripley and the present Legion ville location north of Brainerd, (southwest of Merrifield).

Besides school patrol and school bus patrol training by troopers, other instructors help complete the week with swimming, canoeing, first aid training and many other activities and games. The camp is a very active place.

Parents can pay for their kids to go, even though there are also some limited numbers of scholarships available each year through the local schools, State Patrol Troopers Association, local American Legion posts and many other venues. The registration fee is $275 per student.

This year, weekly sessions run from the middle of June, until the middle of August. For registration and camp information go to: http:// www.legionville.org/

Take time out of your Memorial Day plans to recognize our veterans

If you haven't notice already, today's edition of the Star Herald has a number of mentions of the upcoming Memorial Day holiday.

Today's editorial reminds us of the many blessings we have as free citizens because of the sacrifices that tens of thousands of American servicemen and servicewomen have given to our country. Those sacrifices were not only for our benefit but also for the benefit of foreign lands many of us had never heard of.

Be sure to check out Page 8B in this issue also. Highlighted on the page are the special events that are scheduled for this weekend, starting with the Rock County Memorial Candlelight Vigil Sunday at dusk. Also listed are the Memorial Day services for Luverne, Hills, Beaver Creek and Hardwick, as well as the Minnesota Veterans Home program.

When I think about holidays throughout the year, Memorial Day is the one that gives me the most reason

We give thanks at Thanksgiving, we rejoice at Easter, we celebrate the birth of our Lord and Savior at Christmas, and on the Fourth of July we set off fireworksto toast our independence.

But for good reason, Memorial Day is different, or at least I think it should be. In a way we are able to be thankful, we are able to rejoice, we are able to celebrate the birth of Jesus and have a picnic on the Fourth of July because of the sacrifices of those we honor on Memorial Day.

My Memorial Day emotions run the gamut from sadness, to appreciation, to humbleness, to sheer admiration for the men and women who gave their lives to their families that suffered the loss of a loved one in service to our country.

To all veterans that stand tall, that stand proud, because of them we stand together as free American citizens.

Thank you, crossing guards

By Lori Sorenson

Crossing guards near the Luverne Public School campus were honored at a thank you brunch Friday, May 20, at the American Reformed Church.

Church staff there came up with the idea of hosting the luncheon to thank the crossing guards for their service and to present them with handmade thank-you cards from students.

Crossing guards who attended the brunch (and their years of crossing guard work) include Pat Weerheim, seven years; Marinus Cross, 4 1/2 years; Dave Ruddy, three years; Kevin Elbers, 12 years; and Nelvin Schelhaas, four years.

Rectangular rapid flashing beacons were installed this year at the Dodge and Barck intersections of Highway 75. The $200,000 equipment will replace most of the six crossing guards that had cost $50,000 annually.

1924: Former resident's return home to Luverne leads to reminiscing home here.

Mr. DeForce, who is a son of the late Ed. A. DeForce, one of the first settlers of Kanaranzi township, still retains vivid recollections of Rock county when it was a wilderness in the first stages of transformation.

His father first came here in 1871, filing on a homestead in Kanaranzi, and the following year returned to Boone county, Illinois, and brought his family, which included

George, then nine years of age, back with him. That fall the father passed away and the family moved into Collin Estey's dugout for the winter. This dugout was on the south part of what is now known as the Frank Kohn place, but was originally the Henry Martin homestead.

In the fall of 1873 the DeForces returned to Illinois and later on, in the same year, Mrs. DeForce was married to Collin Estey at Mankato. The next spring they moved to the Estey homestead located four miles south and one half mile west of Luverne, on the southwest quarter of section 34, Luverne township. The year 1874 was the first year that the grasshoppers were here and they continued to ravage the crops in the county for the next two years.

In the summer of 1876 Mr. DeForce began to work in the first drug store in Luverne owned by Nathan Estey. That December he left this county and since that has lived, for the greater part of the time, in Colorado and Montana. For the last eighteen months he has been under a physician's care, spending part of that time, in hospitals, but since his return to Minnesota, his health has shown considerable improvement.

Mr. DeForce, in company with Nathan and Collin Estey, are credited with having killed the last buffalo seen in Rock county, which was in 1873. Nathan Estey had often hunted buffalo in this section and he claimed that the male that was shot at that time was the largest ever seen on these plains. These buffalo, which Readers in Rock County will have additional locations to pick up or drop off a book as part of the Little Free Library program that allows people to take books and return them once they're read.

The Rock County Early Childhood Initiative is coordinating the project with the help of the Luverne Area Chamber and Rock County Community Library.

"The whole idea is to encourage people to read and use the library," said Karen Willers, ECI member.

Friends of the Library have donated available books, and ECFE is providing children's books.

Each location has small structures to protect the books from the elements.

"This 'book shelter' offers travelers, visitors and residents the opportunity to stop by and pick up a book," said Chamber Director Jane Wildung Lanphere.

"They can have it for as long as they want or they can keep it. They are asked to replace the book at the same little library or at another one. The purpose is getting people to read."

•Fey Industries, Edgerton, "Innovative" manufacturer and imprinter, family owned and operated for 50-plus years.

One of the three hunters succeeded in crippling the bull as it made a mad rush for him, and then George was granted the privilege of firing the shot that put it out of its misery.

The cow and calf, were then trailed to near the present site of Valley Springs, where one of the party succeeded in dispatching the cow. The calf was captured and brought back to the Estey homestead, and kept.

Nathan Estey and a man named Moon came to the section of the northwest in 1866 and the next year filed on a homestead where Rock Rapids now stands. When Edward DeForce and his family came to where Rock Rapids now stands, all they could see was a dugout in the side of a hill and a pet deer, belonging to Mr. Moon, tied to a picket rope.

• Pocket gophers seem to be a very harmless animal. They live alone, are seldom seen and usually remain underground during the day. They feed primarily on roots. They seem to find alfalfa roots particularly to their liking, maybe because these roots are in abundance and grow deep. But, they do little damage to the alfalfa plant by eating on the roots. These little animals are a terrible nuisance to alfalfa fields because of the many mounds of dirt they produce....

A machine which deposits poisoned milo into the gopher channels will have the gopher pick up this grain, come in contact with the poison and Mr. Gopher dies a sudden death.

Wet spring means grass is green (and long) on both sides of the fence those people who love mowing their lawn, has this been a great spring. For those people who hate mowing the lawn ... well, the rest of us can tell.

Proper mowing is one of $the\,keys\,to\,a\,healthy\,lawn.\,Set$ your mowing height at 3 or 3 1/2 inches tall. Taller grass forms a deeper root system. The stronger plants are better able to fight off insects, disease, and weeds.

Mow often enough so that you are removing no more than 1/3 of the total height. This reduces the stress on the plants and results in shorter clippings that can be left on the lawn. These shorter clippings add nitrogen and organic matter to the soil.

Vary the direction and

pattern of mowing. It reduces the wear and tear on the lawn. Last year our flowering crab trees showed a lot of damage from a bacterial disease called fire blight. This virus usually enters the vascular system of the trees when they are blooming. Much as I appreciate bees, they are often the culprits who spread the virus. When the trees are blooming, the flower is an open port for the virus to enter. That virus will eventually lodge somewhere within the vascular system and block off the flow of sap, resulting in the symptom of the leaves suddenly wilting and drying on the stem beyond that blockage.

Some varieties are not susceptible and others have varying degrees of susceptibility. If you notice these symptoms and act promptly, often the tree can be saved, depending on the severity of the infection.

First line of defense is an application of fire blight spray. The spray is an agricultural streptomycin that is applied late in the day so the leaves have a chance to absorb it rather than it evaporating immediately.

Next step is to remove any visibly damaged stems. Prune out branches that show symptoms by making the cut 6 inches backinto healthy wood. That will effectively remove that point of infection. Be absolutely sure to sterilize the pruning tool with a 10-percent bleach solution between cuts so you are not spreading the virus from one cut to the next.

It may take more than one spray application to stop the spread of the virus, depending on weather conditions and how promptly you act.

If you choose to do nothing, the tree will either succumb to the disease or its shape will be seriously distorted.

I was out working one of my part-time jobs for most of the day yesterday and when I got home, Corrine informed me that the yellow-striped cucumber beetles had attacked our zucchini plants ... already! This is alarming because like fire blight virus that I just informed you about, these critters not only eat the leaves, they also transmit bacterialvirusthatcanwreckthe plants for the rest of the season ... their banquet was short lived!

A celebration of the 125th anniversary of American national parks and the 100th anniversary of Minnesota state parks

Park manager to present the story of the Blue Mounds State Park American bison Saturday evening, May 28, to kick off the summer of celebration

By Lori Sorenson

This year is the 100th anniversary of Minnesota state parks and the 125th anniversary of America's national parks. To celebrate, a summer of special events and activities has been planned at the Blue Mounds State Park and Touch the Sky Prairie.

The first of those events is set for this weekend when park manager Chris Ingebretsen shares the story of Blue Mounds State Park bison.

The event will be at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, May 28, in the state park amphitheater near the campgrounds. Ingebretsen will explain how the local herd was developed and how park staff members care for the creatures. He'll also talk about the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources' efforts to keep the herd pure and maintain its 100-percent genetic American bison makeup.

The evening's information will address how these animals provided more than food, clothing and shelter to Native Americans and how these animals connected heart, mind, body and soul.

Similar presentations will also be made June 25 and Sept. 3.

Prairie celebration events in June include photog-

Peterson is a photojournalist who recently published "Minnesota State of Wonders," a 2014 adventure of photographing the four corners of Minnesota.

That same weekend, on June 12, the late author Fred Manfred's story of "Lord Grizzly" will come to life in a presentation by his children, Fred and Freya.

They will read excerpts from the novel based on the true story of Hugh Glass and provide a comparative narrative of the book with the Academy Awardwinning movie, "Revenant."

hired Marie Atkinson-Smeins as the elementary counselor about 25 years

According to Atkinson-Smeins, Nelson has been a leader among counselors in the region. He was selected as the Southwest Minnesota School Counselor of the year in 2003.

She also points out that, because of Nelson's efforts, Luverne has been a host site for ACT testing and a regional college fair for over 30 years.

When Keith Erickson retired as middle school counselor in 1999, Nelson was shortly thereafter assigned the counseling duties for grades 6-8 in addition to his previous responsibilities. "It was a big change; it doubled my workload," he said.

Other changes have occurred over the years. When Nelson was hired in Luverne, there were no computers in the office and he did student scheduling by hand. Since then, technology, standardized testing, and the number of students attending college have all increased signifi-

"Thirty years ago, about one third of our graduates went to a four-year college, one third went to the military or a technical school, and one third went right into the work force," Nelson remembered. "Now, it's about 60 percent to a four-year college and another 20-30 percent to a technical program or the military."

Every few years Nelson has collected data from recent LHS graduates to study the results of their post-secondary plans. His unofficial research has often found that more than 80 percent of those graduates have successfully completed their post-secondary education or training.

"That's well above the national average," he said. "The community can be very proud of that."

In addition to the normal guidance counselor tasks, a wide variety of other student needs have kept Nelson busy over the years.

"You rarely know on any given day what issues you are going to be presented with," he said. Common issues that he works with students on include grief, bullying, depression, friendship and family challenges.

"I often tell people it doesn't matter what size school you are in — you will deal with everything you can imagine as a school counselor," Nelson stated.

As he looks back on more than three decades in Luverne, Nelson says he feels fortunate to have been part of the team of educators in the local schools.

"The community has always placed a high value on education and that sets a great foundation of success for Luverne graduates," he said. "The vast majority of kids have taken advantage of that."

Nelson has seen these benefits with his own sons. "My three boys all graduated from the Luverne schools and I feel they had great experiences because of our outstanding staff," he said.

When asked about his future plans, Nelson, who now resides in Sioux Falls, said his first priority is to "disable my alarm clock." He also plans to play golf this summer and has built a short list of travel destinations he hopes to visit soon.

"Beyond that, I have no specific plans," he said. "I look forward to seeing what happens."

As his final school year winds downs, Nelson said he realizes what he'll miss in retirement.

"It's been a great, great ride," he said. "I've met so many wonderful people, students, parents and community members. ... It's been a fun time, and I will definitely miss the people."

Girls place third in Stillwater

By John Rittenhouse

The Luverne girls turned in their second consecutive thirdplace effort at the Minnesota State Class A True Team Track and Field Championships in Stillwater Saturday.

LHS compiled 383 points, finishing behind Blue Earth Area (420) and Osakis (399.5) in an eight-team field.

Holdingford (327), Trinity School at River Ridge (314), Park Rapids Area (295), Lake City (294), Pierz (274.5) and Frazee (226) capped the field.

Considering the Cardinals placed higher than projected, the meet was a success in the mind of LHS coach Craig Nelson.

"On paper, we were predicted to finish fifth," he said.

"We knew it would be close and knew if our team could compete they way we were capable of, we would be in the hunt."

The Cardinals put themselves in title contention by winning six meet championships and placing second in two events.

Madison Schandelmeier and Courtney Siebenahler led the charge by claiming two individual titles each.

Schandelmeier won the 1,600- and 3,200-meter runs with respective 5:16.94 and 11:57.71 times, while Siebenahler took top honors in the long and triple jumps with 15-4 1/2 and 36-11 1/2 distances.

Morgan Edwards also landed an individual title for LHS by winning the discus competition with a toss of 115-1.

Anderson registered both of Luverne's second-place efforts with times of 1:01.87 and 2:24.51 in the 400-meter dash and the 800-meter run. "I'm very pleased with our girls," Nelson said.

"We had a lot of seasonalbest performances and that's all you can ask for as a coach. They went out there and did their best. This is the 10th year in a row we've gone to state and we've placed third or better nine times in that span."

Skyler Wenninger's great adventure

Skyler Wenninger has unique plans for the summer of 2016. The 2013

Luverne High School graduate and current South Dakota State University student will be playing a lot of baseball in the coming months.

He simply won't be taking his swings and playing shortstop for the Luverne Redbirds as much as he has in recent years.

After his sophomore season with the Jackrabbits is complete, Wenninger will be loading up his vehicle and heading out on adventure to the West Coast.

His destination will be Southern California, where he will be playing baseball for the San Diego Waves, a team that is a member of the National Baseball Congress that competes in the California Collegiate League.

"My coach at SDSU got me set up with the team," Wenninger said during a conversation Sunday morning.

"It's kind of exciting because I've never been there before and I'm venturing out there on my own for the first time."

It will be an adventure for the oldest son of Mike and Lori Wenninger.

Ultimately, it will be a business trip.

Wenninger is traveling to San Diego to play shortstop for a Waves team that has produced a number of MLB players in the past, including former Minnesota Twins pitcher Kevin Correia.

He'll be the only member of the team from the Midwest.

The Waves are scheduled to play their first game on June 2 and a good year for San Diego could result with an appearance in the NBC World Series set for August 5-13.

"We'll play around 50 games, about five or six games a week," Wenninger

"I'll be playing baseball just about every day in a good week."

The team sets players up with host families, and Wenninger will be lodging with a single, elderly gentleman he has yet to

Where he sleeps isn't a concern of Wenninger's, but he does like what he has learned about the location of his host's dwelling.

"It's close to the field and about a mile from the beach. It should be a lot of fun," he stated.

For a guy who loves baseball as much as Skyler does, it should be a lot more than fun.

It sounds like the adventure of a lifetime.

"It's a little weird because I'm used to spending my summers working and playing baseball in Luverne. Hopefully, this will be something that will make me a better player," Wenninger stated.

Buffalos break through

By John Rittenhouse

The Tri-State Buffalos picked up their first Southern Plains Football League win of the season Saturday in Hills.

After being limited to six points during the first three weeks of the 2016 campaign, the Buffalos exploded for 44 points during a 44-14 victory over the Watertown (South Dakota) Rebels.

Tri-State raced to a 26-2 lead in the game's first half and outscored the Rebels 18-12 in the second half to prevail by 30 points. The hosts experienced a shaky start to the game as Watertown registered a safety three minutes into the contest when a botched snap led to the Buffalos' punter being tackled in the end zone. T-S responded to the challenge by scoring 26 unanswered points to end the first half. Tyler Miller scored on a 23-yard run and carried in the ensuing two-point conversion with 56 seconds left in the first quarter to make it an 8-2 game. Miller scored on a 29-yard run 16 seconds into the second period and Kris Dearie registered a seven-yard touchdown run

2:14 later to make it a 20-2 game. Buffalo quarterback Ryan Gonzalez tossed a 13-yard touchdown to Stephen Fry with 9.7 seconds left to make it a 24-point (26-2) difference at the intermission. Watertown trimmed the difference to 18 points (26-8) with a touchdown pass late in the third quarter, but Kendall Ledbetter scored on a four-yard run on the first play of the fourth quarter and Dearie added a 17-yard touchdown run to make it a 38-3 game with 7:52 remaining.

Following a touchdown pass by Watertown, Richard Gonzalez capped the scoring for T-S with a 45-yard touchdown run with 3:09 remaining.

Luverne's Jesse Reed completes a successful steal of second base as the ball skips away from a Marshall defender during Thursday's game at Redbird Field. The Tigers rallied late to secure a 7-5 win.

Cardinals rally before falling to Tigers

By John Rittenhouse

An impressive rally by the Luverne Cardinal baseball team went unrewarded Thursday at Redbird Field.

After falling behind the Marshall Tigers 4-0 three and one-halfinningsintothegame, the Cardinals battled back to $take\,a\,5\text{-}4\,lead\,into\,the\,seventh$ inning.

Marshall, however, put together a three-run rally in the top half of the seventh frame and blanked LHS in the bottom of the inning to secure a 7-5 win.

The Tigers plated single runs in the first and fourth innings and scored twice in the third to open a four-run cushion early in the contest.

LHS climbed back into contention with a three-run fourth inning featuring RBI doubles from Jakob Olson and Tyler Reisdorfer and a run-scoring single by Cole Bosch before $knotting the score \, at four \, in \, the \,$ fifth when Connor Sandbulte singled and scored on a wild pitch.

The Cards moved in front 5-4 when Bosch doubled and scored on a single by Jake Haugen in the sixth, but LHS couldn't close the door on the Tigers.

Marshall turned two walks and two singles into a threerun rally in the seventh inning to settle the issue.

Jesse Reed tossed three innings of three-run, threehit ball as Luverne's starting pitcher before giving way to Reisdorfer, who limited the Tigers to one run and two hits over the next three innings.

Nick Overgaard took the pitching loss after yielding three runs and two hits in the seventh.

ond inning, but LHS escaped the situation by registering a rare triple play.

The Cards upped the lead to 4-0 in the second with an RBI double from Connor Sandbulte, a run-scoring single by Reisdorfer and an RBI ground out by Beers.

Adrian's Jacob Stamer drew a bases-loaded walk in the top of the third inning, but the Cards countered with a fiverun rally in the bottom of the third and plated single runs in the fifth and sixth innings.

Bosch doubled home two runs, Reisdorfer slapped an RBI single and scored on a wild pitch and Beers delivered an RBI single in the third inning.

Accommodations for afterlife

Sometime very soon, you — yes, you — will be whisked away into eternity for your afterlife. The afterlife — that's more than just a weekend away. That's more than just a short vacation lasting a week or two, or even a month. That's something that will last forever and ever!

It would seem like everybody should be thinking about their accommodations for the afterlife. After all, we're fussy about where we spend even just our weekends. We're fussy about where we go for those little vacations that only last a week or two. We're fussy about what seat we have on the airplane. We're fussy about what hotel we stay at, and how big the room is, and whether the linens and towels are clean. We're fussy about what meals we eat, what attractions we see, and whether or not we get good photos of the whole thing. Why then would anyone be careless about their eternal accommodations for the afterlife? Well, maybe some people think they're doing fine in preparing for the afterlife themselves. A look into our lives and into our hearts shows otherwise. At times we are greedy, proud, lustful, disrespectful, impatient. ... Those are all sins.

People who die in their sins will not be happy with their accommodations in the afterlife. Scripture tells us that there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth (Matt. 8.12), where the fire is not quenched (Mark 9.48). And there's no front desk in hell where people can phone in their complaints.

That was going to be our fate. How can we possibly face death and judgment, and the afterlife? Thankfully there are good, very good accommodations for us in the Lord Jesus. He lived out the perfect life for us that we should have lived. He gave Himself into suffering for us, even to the point of dying our death in order to pay for our rooms in heaven.

Yes, what a huge relief that all of our sins are forgiven in our Savior Jesus. Without Him there is nothing good. But when we're in Him, we have forgiveness for all sins and peace with God. Because of Jesus we have a beautiful home in heaven with the Lord to look forward to. A place where we are free from sin, pain, suffering, and sadness. All of us need that. So please come at the Lord's invitation, to receive His forgiveness and new life! He loves you, He cares about you, and He wants the very best for you!
