Magnolia man arrested for 1991 homicide in Pennsylvania

By Lori Sorenson

Rock County Sheriff Evan Verbrugge said he was surprised to receive state and national media inquiries Tuesday about a homicide arrest involving a Magnolia man.

"It's kind of intriguing, to be honest," Verbrugge told the Star Herald Tuesday morning.

"I'm not aware of any homicide."
When he searched the subject online, he found several Associated Press stories that had been posted around 10:30 a.m.

Following is that report:

Pennsylvania authorities say a Minnesota man has been arrested on charges he killed a 76-year-old Pennsylvania woman a quartercentury ago.

Indiana County District Attorney Patrick Dougherty says the suspect is a 61-year-old man from Magnolia, a tiny town of roughly 200 people.

Dougherty says the suspect fired two shots through a window that killed Myrtle McGill in the kitchen of her White Township home.

Her body was found Dec. 13, 1991, but authorities believe she died several days before.

Authorities say her car was stolen but nothing else.

Dougherty and state police aren't revealing the suspect's name or other details until a news conference Friday.

Other reports have said police and the district attorney's office have filed charges of criminal homicide against the Magnolia man.

The Indiana Gazette reports that a glass sliding door to McGill's home had been smashed with a rock, but the only item reported missing was her 1982 Ford LTD.

The car was found Dec. 9, four days before McGill's body was discovered, in the Greyhound bus station near Pittsburgh.

No usable fingerprints were reportedly found in the vehicle.

Verbrugge said he personally reached out to Indiana State Police but was unable to learn anything

Masonic Temple rededication begins new chapter for local lodge

By Mavis Fodness

Saturday marks a milestone for the local Masonic Temple.

At a 5 p.m. rededication ceremony, the Ben Franklin Lodge No. 114 members will shed some light on the world's oldest fraternity. The ceremony is open to the public.

The Ancient Free and Accepted Masons were reorganized in the early 1700s as a way to share and pass on the philosophies of stone masons to future generations.

Bryce Stoltenberg has been the local lodge's leader for the past four years. He sees Saturday's rededication as a chance to lift some of the mystery surrounding the masons group.

"I want to bring Masonry back to the community and make a more vibrant organization for the entire family to join and enjoy," he said.

The Ben Franklin Lodge has had more than 700 members from Luverne and the surrounding area in the past 141 years.

"Our roster is full of well-known leaders from our area as well as less-known people like myself," Stoltenberg said. Through the centuries the Masons moved away from teaching stone-working skills to emphasize and demonstrate the morals of tolerance, respect, kindness and charity within their communities.

The mystery around the Masons has continued due to the ancient

Teens help to bridge language gap in Luverne Elementary classrooms

The educational journey for Luverne High School Senior Betania Topete came full circle Monday as she worked one-on-one with kindergartner Rene Flores.

Topete is one of four Spanish IV students practicing language skills with elementary and middle school students who are learning English as a second language.

The unique pairing is in response to this year's larger than anticipated student growth at Luverne Public Schools.

With almost 50 students above last year's fall enrollment of 1,193, the new students are almost evenly split between the elementary and middle/school high school.

Feeling the growing pains is Al Brinkman's K-12 English as a Second Language program. His classroom grew by 10 over last year. Of the 40 current students, 11 are kindergartners.

Luverne woman accepts call to become Methodist pastor

By Mavis Fodness

While many of the Luverne High School Class of 1976 graduates are thinking about retirement, Velda Maine is starting a new career.

She said sleeping in or planning the next travel destination may never be on her to-do list, but volunteering is.

She said one such experience led her back to school this year to become a local licensed pastor.

"I am feeling a real call to ministry," Maine said.

In late August she began on-thejobtraining with the congregations of Jasper and Salem United Methodist churches as pastor while juggling her current duties as youth minister and secretary at the United Methodist Church in Luverne.

"People say you will have 10 jobs in your lifetime," she said. Maine may well be at that

Filling the cracks

Luverne's Main Street was under a dusty haze last week while city public works crews completed crack sealing on the street downtown. This photo was taken Tuesday morning on Main Street facing east. Crack sealing is a cost effective maintenance tool that helps prevent damage from water and the effects of the freeze and thaw cycles. Flexible, watertight material is placed in joints and pavement cracks to keep water, sand and dirt from filling the cracks.

Luverne grad's book made into movie

"When a stressed out nursing student covers a night shift in a hospital's morgue, things start to become strange."

This is a description of the horror film, "Insania," which is based on a short story written by Luverne High School graduate Rona Vaselaar.

"I heard the story on the NoSleep podcast and I knew I had to make a film from it," says director Derrick Childers, who adapted the story into a screenplay.

Vaselaarwas happy to give Childers permission to use the story when he contacted her.

"I am overwhelmed by the fact that someone wanted to turn my story into a film, and I am very excited to see the product," Vaselaar said.

"I have been very curious as to how this particular story would translate into another medium, and I have high hopes for its success.

Vaselaar has had many of her stories made into Podcasts, but this is the first completed movie of one of her works.

The film premiered at the Long Center for the Performing Arts in Lafayette, Indiana, on Oct. 13, but Vaselaar was unable to attend because she's a grad student in China at Hopkins-Nanjing University.

Vaselaar's parauthor ents, Eric and Meredith Vaselaar, rural Adrian, attended in her place.

Council pay to increase, unpaid utilities assessed

By Lori Sorenson

Luverne City Council members approved salary increases for city elected officials at their Oct. 11 meeting.

They approved an ordinance to set the mayor's annual salary at $8,450 per year. This is an increase of $2,550 over the current $5,900 per year.

The ordinance also increases the aldermen's salary to $7,000 per year, an increase of $2,000 over the current pay of $5,000 per year.

"The salaries have not been adjusted for 10 years and reflect the need to keep up with inflation," said City Administrator John Call. The per diem for meetings will increase to $50 for meetings that last up to three hours and $100 per day for a full day of meetings. When there are multiple meetings in a day, the per diem cannot exceed $150 per day.

The current per diem is $65 for a full day and $35 for a half day.

By comparison, Pipestone aldermen receive $333.33 per month ($3,999.96 per year), which includes regular meetings. Per diem for special meetings is $20.

The Pipestone mayor receives $450 per month ($5,400 per year) plus $25 for special meetings.

Worthington City Council members receive $6,000 per year, and the mayor is paid $10,000. Both mayor and aldermen receive $50 per meeting for special meetings (outside of regular council meetings).

Luverne's increases take effect on Jan. 1, 2017.

Unpaid utility bills

At the start of their Oct. 11 meeting, Luverne City Council members hosted a public hearing on proposed assessments for unpaid utility and miscellaneous charges.

The purpose of the hearing was to allow testimony or written correspondence from property owners about their utility charges.

One person, Stan Wieneke, attended the hearing to question a $149 utility charge on a rental property he had recently purchased that had been vacated for three years. He said he was willing to pay the amount; he just sought information on the process, since it was a property he purchased from a foreclosure company.

City Attorney Ben Vander Kooi remarked that communication with a buyer can sometimes fall short when dealing with foreclosed properties, since so many banks and legal entities become involved. He advised Wieneke to contact the realtor, since liens should have been cleared prior to sale.

There were 30 delinquent accounts totaling roughly $11,000, but after delinquency notices were sent, the total dropped to $8,800.

The city bills out roughly $9 million in charges, so the council noted the delinquent accounts are a small percentage of the total utility charges.

The council approved a resolution at their Oct. 11 meeting to assess delinquent property owners for their unpaid bills, plus 4 percent interest. No interest will be charged if they pay in 30 days.

Rotary Club and community dedicate new park on South Highway 75

By Lori Ehde

Luverne Rotary Club members, city public works employees and volunteers are wrapping up work on the new Rotary Park on South Highway 75 in Luverne.

The club hosted a dedication ceremony Oct. 11 as part of their regular meeting, and City Council members remarked about it at their meeting later that night.

"I think everyone can be proud of that park out there and the cooperation between the Rotary and the city public works," City Administrator John Call said.

Work on the park, located just north of Subway on the east side of the road, has been underway since 2011 when the city council approved the property for that use.

It's a walk-in, bike-in park with benches, flags, playground equipment and other amenities. There will be no parking lot.

Another important feature of the property is a fenced-in dog walking area for travelers and others to let their dogs run and stretch their legs.

The fence for that area located on the lower ground to the east — will be the next step in the process.

Mayor Pat Baustian remarked that the park fits well with other recent improvements along South Highway

"What a great asset that Rotary Park will be for our community," he said. "It's really a nice gateway - a showpiece for our community."

The Rotary Club developed the park as a community service project, which means volunteers will maintain landscaping and equipment. The city retains ownership of the property as it does other city parks, meaning mowing and snow removal.

Nearby restaurant owners have been asked to accommodate parking for park visitors, and the idea would be that these travelers would also consider ordering a bite to eat there as well.

The park idea was initially conceived in brainstorming sessions for beautifying South Highway 75 as part of the Community Revitalization Project.

Star Herald profiles candidates for Rock County Commissioner races in Districts 1 and 3

By Mavis Fodness

The third of four candidate profiles on the contested races in Rock County appears in today's Star Herald. Last week we focused on the school board races in Luverne, Adrian, Ellsworth and Hills-Beaver Creek.

In the Oct. 6 edition the contested mayoral races in Hardwick and Beaver Creek were featured along with the two candidates vying for the North Ward alderman for the city of Luverne. The general election is Nov. 8. Candidate profiles will be in these upcoming editions: Today: Districts 1 and 3 Commissioner races. Oct. 27: State Senate and House of Representatives.

Here's what we asked the candidates: 1.) List experiences that will be helpful in fulfilling the position duties if you win the Nov. 8 general election. 2.) What do you think are the primary challenges facing your community and how will you lead the county through these challenges?

Greg Burger for County Commission District 3

Greg Burger is seeking election to the District 3 County Commissioner position. He and his wife, Janet, live in Luverne. They have three grown children, Jennifer Thone, Luverne; Melissa Cunningham, Spencer, Iowa; and Ryan Burger, Sioux Falls, and seven grandchildren.

1.) Experiences: The last 25 years of my banking career was spent as the chief executive officer of two community banks in Minnesota. Both banks were approximately $165 million in asset base. Both were considered highly concentrated in providing financial services to farmers in different types of farming operations. Both institutions employed 28 to 35 individuals ranging from lenders to customer service personnel to tellers and backroom operation staff.

During these years I gained hands-on knowledge of budgeting, asset/liability management and resource management, providing oneon-one customer service and financial helps, and lending and providing management assistance to farming operations throughout Rock County.

I have been involved in many local organizations whose principal goals were to grow the local economy. I chaired two fund drives in recent years. One raised $1.25 million for the new hospital. The second raised almost $1 million for the new History Center.

2.) Challenges: As is the case with most small communities in the state, Rock County struggles with generating enough income to meet all the needs of a changing and challenging environment. Infrastructure improvements are a case in point currently.

It seems that we struggle to keep up with needed road and bridge improvements due to budget constraints. I believe that one of the long-term solutions is to become more aggressive with potential business growth.

New business development can increase the tax base without increasing the burden on existing taxpayers. It's time for the county to get involved in growing the base by aggressively seeking new business opportunities and the jobs they create.

The current issues facing our farming operations will affect the county as a whole if revenues continue to slide for production agriculture. We need to do whatever is necessary to control expenses, including tax burden, during the recent cycle.

Gary Overgaard for County Commission District 1

Gary Overgaard is running for the District 1 County Commissioner position being vacated by retiring commissioner Ken Hoime of Kenneth. Overgaardandhis wife, Emily, live on a farm in Vienna Township. 1.) •1970 Luverne High Schoolgraduate; BS Degree in Animal Science from South Dakota State University in 1974.

•1975 to 1977 instructor in the Lamb and Wool Program at the Pipestone Vo-Tech School; assessor for Kanaranzi Township 1975 to 1980; 1985 to 1987 worked withRockCountyExtension Office doing farm financial analysis during farm crisis and filled in as county Extension director; 1989 to 2002 worked as multi-peril and hail crop adjuster; last 36 years DeKalb/Asgrow seed dealer; lifelong crop and livestock farmer. Served two terms on Rock County Extension Committee; past chairman Southwest Minnesota Regional Extension Board; served on farm services county committee; president, Minnesota State Suffolk Sheep Association; past president of Rock County Pork Producers and member of county, state, national corn and soybean growers and Rock County Rural Water System since 1979; 40year member Rock County Fair Board; Rock County Fair 4-H sheep superintendent; served on Minnesota State Fair 4-H Livestock Committee and as state fair 4-H sheep superintendent. 2.) Over the past six weeks I have visited with officials in six townships, four city councils and two fire departments in District 1. The primary concerns that they have are roads and bridges, fire protection and the availability of EMTs.

With the current downturn in the ag economy, it is going to be critical to be able to keep up with the necessary funding to address these concerns. I will attempt to use a common sense approach to resolve these issues without burdening the taxpayers.

I hope that the voters would agree that we need to maintain an ag presence on the county board and I believe that I am the best candidate to fill that position.

Mike Davis for County Commission District 1

Mike Davis is seeking election to the District 1 County Commissioner seat being vacated by the retiring Ken Hoime.

Davis lives in Magnolia Township with his wife, Tracy, and three children, Trae, Carson and Carter.

1.) I work out in the public daily, so I hear people's needs and concerns. I am currently on the Magnolia Township board and I am also on the Southwest Regional Development Commis-

2.) I believe the primary challenge our community is facing is the lack of the public being more informed in general.

I believe through the county we could find a better way to communicate with the public.

If elected, in the beginning my best option will be to listen to our other public officials and find out what the major concerns are.

Darrel Van Aartsen for County Commission Dist. 3

Darrel Van Aartsen is running for the District 3 County Commissioner position. He and his wife, La-Donna, live in Clinton Township and have three grown children, Brent, Jonathon and Mark.

word mean more than pen and paper.

I have been on many different boards and held leadership positions such as deacon and elder in my church, Rock County Historical Society, 4-H leader, youth group leader and facility expansion chairman of our church, to mention a few. 2.) I don't believe there are any major challenges at

I do, however, think we could be more proactive in caring for the needs of our county. According to the state we have some of the worst roads in the state.

Law enforcement seems to be something we need to keep a close eye on. We live in a safe com-

My advice if politics is too much to take, watch the Cubs

Since my middle school years, I've had an interest in politics.

I think it actually is important who is elected and I think it matters how our elected officials act and react to people and situations. In my opinion, our candidates reflect on us as a nation, and their character counts.

So, as you can probably imagine, I'm not enjoying this campaign season.

This election season is like a nasty, low-budget cable TV reality show that I would never watch. It's been turned into a circus, a joke and a shame.

I'm fortunate to teach a government class to seniors at Adrian High School. Most of the time it's a blast to teach a topic that I'm passionate about and to inspire an interest in politics in some students.

But this year I've found myself saying to my students, "If politics was like this when I was your age, I would have never become as interested in it."

I miss the days (as recently as four years ago) when both parties nominated qualified candidates who, although human and often very flawed, at least acted and spoke in public like civil adults who were trying to be worthy of deserving our

So, what is a political junky like me who wants civility and competence in politics to do in the final weeks of a campaign that has none of those things?

I'm going back to another childhood interest of mine. I'm jumping back on the Chicago Cubs bandwagon!

IN OTHER WORDS

By Jason Berghorst, reporter

During the first few summers that I was old enough to stay home during the day, our house had no video games and the Internet was years away.

But we did have cable TV and WGN-TV from Chicago. That meant Cubs games from Wrigley Field with Harry Carey's play-by-play most weekdays at 1:20 p.m. Now, that was my kind of reality cable TV!

The tradition-rich Cubs had no home night games until the late 1980s when lights were finally installed at venerable Wrigley Field. But the Cubs did have a national TV audience on cable in the '80s and '90s.

To this day, even though I follow the Twins more closely now, I still feel a connection to the Cubs, Wrigley Field and Chicago overall from watching all those afternoon games on TV as a kid.

That's why I'm rooting for them in the playoffs and hoping they make it to the World Series, which will be played just days before Election Day.

I can think of no better way to try to avoid this reality show nightmare of a campaign than to cheer for my favorite childhood team as they try to win their first World Series in 108

Large farm machinery needs escort vehicle if width crosses center line

Question: I heard one of my neighbors was pulled over by a State Trooper for driving his combine down the road. The trooper told him he needed a pilot car. Is this true?

Answer: Farm equipment may be driven or towed to the left of the center of a roadway only if it is escorted by a vehicle displaying hazard warning lights that are visible in normal sunlight. The escort $vehicle \, must be located \, in front of the \,$ farm equipment and the equipment must not extend into the left half of the roadway more than is necessary.

If the farm equipment does not have an escort, they are required to remove the header and tow it on the highway.

During 2013-15, 422 traffic crashes involving at least one farm vehicle took place on Minnesota roads, resulting in 12 fatalities and 204 injuries. Of the 12 fatalities, eight were farm vehicle riders; of the 204 injuries, 57 were farm vehicle riders. The biggest factors contributing to farm equipment/vehicle crashes are inattention, unsafe passing and speed. Motorists should always slow down and use caution when approaching farm equipment.

Motorists traveling on Minnesota highways this fall need to be aware of large farm equipment transporting crops to markets, grain elevators and processing plants.

ASK A TROOPER

By Sgt. Troy Christianson, Minnesota State Patrol

Farm equipment is large and heavy, making it difficult for operators to accelerate, slow down and stop. The machines also make wide turns and sometimes cross over the center line. In addition, farm vehicles can create large blind spots, making it difficult for operators to see approaching vehicles. All of these factors may cause serious crashes.

Motorists should:

•Watch for debris dropped by trucks hauling their crops. It is safer to brake or drive through debris than to veer into oncoming traffic or off the road.

•Wait for a safe place to pass. It is important to be patient.

•Wear seat belts. •Drive with headlights on at all

Farm equipment operators

•Use lights and flashers to make equipment more visible.

•Use slow-moving vehicle emblems on equipment traveling less than 30 mph. •Consider using a follow vehicle

when moving equipment, especially •Remove bean or corn heads when traveling down the roadway if it is too wide to stay within your lane and the shoulder unless you have a proper pilot car.

You can avoid a ticket — and a crash — if you simply buckle up, drive at safe speeds, pay attention and always drive sober. Help us drive Minnesota Toward Zero Deaths.

VOICE OF OUR READERS

Wratz: 'Is there room for 'hate' in politics?'

To the Editor:

In this most unusual of political seasons, it continues to be a wonder to me that so many people who purport to be good Christians will, in fact, actually hate one or the other of our presidential candidates. Is there room for "hate" in politics, or otherwise, in the Gospel of Jesus Christ? Emphatically, there is not. Strong feelings? Yes, of course! But not hate. There is, I believe, a very fine line between the two

Please allow me to humbly suggest that when you are weighed down by thoughts of who may or may not be our next president, and before uttering or writing thoughts that are not compatible with the teachings of Jesus Christ, close your eyes, take three deep breaths (yoga style, perhaps), maybe listen to some peaceful music, or whatever may calm you, and think again. Then be content with voting on Nov. 8. It is extremely unlikely that any such unkind opining will influence anyone else but will only serve to gratify one's own vanity, or worse.

Humbly submitted from one who has learned, after all these many years, and by many a brutal trial and error, to exercise at least a modicum of patience and brotherly kindness. Not the least of which toward those who think differently than I.

Another downtown business has been approved for Luverne's Historic Façade Improvement Program.

The program offers free technical assistance for architectural design services as well as financial assistance in the form of loans and grants.

On Monday the Luverne Economic Development Authority approved an application for improvements to the Rock County Eye Clinic building at 104 N. Freeman Ave.

The project includes demolishing the existing facade and replacing it with a new exterior insulation and finish system, ledge rock, new glass and glazing, exterior lights, signage, awnings, and roof repair to allow for the parapet framing.

Cyclone Properties LLC, which owns the property, is applying for a grant in the amount of $21,000 (35 percent of the project cost; max $21,000) and they are choosing to forgo the loan portion of the

In the two weeks of working together, Topete and student Flores eagerly converse in Spanish followed by English during their Monday lesson on letters and numbers.

Brinkman said students Flores' age readily absorb everything in and outside the regular classroom.

"If they receive instruction at the kindergarten level, they can expect to be fluent in four to five years," he said. "The national average is seven."

One Pig is the title character from Minnesota author/illustrator Derek Anderson's first book titled "Ten Pigs: An Epic Bath Adventure." Above: Anderson uses various shapes as a template to show his young audience how One Pig is drawn in his author visit Friday afternoon at the Rock County Community Library in Luverne. Children's author, illustrator encourages audience to use imagination

Photos and story by Mavis Fodness

Author and illustrator Derek Anderson told his audience Friday at the Rock County Community Library that he was not much older then than they are now when he knew what his career was going to be.

"I knew in kindergarten I wanted to be an artist," he said.

Anderson showed the picture of a rabbit he drew as an Ames, Iowa, youngster that inspired his dream and sparked his career as an illustrator.

He said an illustrator is free to create characters that can do anything and go anywhere. With that freedom, Anderson explained he became an author after taking his own advice to show characters with a variety of feelings and trying to solve different problems.

"Ten Pigs: An Epic Bathtub Adventure" was the result of his imagination. He said his first published book idea came when he started drawing pigs.

"Once I drew a pig, the clouds opened up," Anderson explained.

His second book, "Ten Hungry Pigs," was recently published.

To illustrate, he quickly created a pig through a series of circles, triangles and rectangles.

He also read his whimsical tale of one pig who wanted to enjoy a bath alone but is soon joined by nine other pigs. Each pig brought along an item such as a surfboard, snorkel or a musical instrument.

Anderson's visits were coordinated through the Plum Creek Library System through the Clean Water, Land and Legacy Grant.

The local stop Friday marked the last of 61 performances Anderson has completed since March.

By Mavis Fodness

Rock County's new 4-H program coordinator combines generational membership with first-time experience.

Chelsey Johnson began Sept. 26, filling an eightmonth search, and is currently getting to know staff, the program's 220 4-H'ers and their families.

"I think the program here is really strong," she said. "I am still learning
all the strengths in Rock County, but I know already that they have a great group of volunteers and supportive parents."

Johnson got acquainted with those volunteers at the organization's Oct. 6 open house/new member drive during National 4-H Week.

"There are so many great things about 4-H," she said. For example, Johnson said she learned about a wide range of interests in general projects, like photography, clothing and leadership skills.

"It also gave me a community within my own township," she said.

Growing up on a dairy farm south of Storden, the Windom High School 2010 graduate wasn't able to participate in every high school activity because of the driving distance and responsibilities of the farm. However, the 4-H club meetings near her home brought neighborhood families together, and the judging team, dairy quiz bowl team and showing dairy cattle further enhanced her feeling of team membership during her 13 years with the program.

Johnson graduated from the Minnesota 4-H program in 2011 after completing her freshman year at South Dakota State University in Brookings.

Johnson is a third-generation 4-H'er following in the footsteps of her grandmother, Ellen Johnson, and her father, Dean Johnson. For her mother, Elizabeth, it was her first experience.

Prior to accepting the Rock County 4-H position, Johnson was the digital communications coordinator for Accelerated Genetics in Baraboo, Wisconsin.

Her return to southwest Minnesota is partly due to accepting a job in the University of Minnesota Extension Program and to be near her then fiancé Austin Ashe, whom she married Oct. 15. They live in Rock Rapids, Iowa

Arnold "Arnie" Gabrielson, 89, died Tuesday,

Sept. 13, 2016.

A memorial celebration of Arnie's life will be at 11 a.m. Friday, Nov. 11, at Berean Baptist Church, 309EastCountyRoad 42, in Burnsville. Arnie Gabrielson was born Aug. 6, 1927, to Norwegian immigrants Ole and Avilda Gabrielson on his family's farm outside Luverne. As a child, Arnie was fascinated by his father's tales of prospecting for gold in the Klondike Gold Rush, where Ole and his brothers found enough of a stake to buy farmland near Luverne. Arnie enjoyed a recent trip to Alaska where he was able to trace some of his father's steps on the quest for gold.

Arnie started working at ten years old as a printer's devil (sorting type) for a local newspaper, as a pinsetter in a bowling alley, and as a paper boy. At age 14, he and a friend jumped freight trains and rode from Luverne to St. Louis, where they worked with a prison chain gang stringing telephone wires and cable on top of new telephone and telegraph poles.

At age 17, Arnie enlisted in the Navy during World War II. He trained at Wold Chamberlain and was stationed in Oakland and San Diego, California. He was about to ship out to the Pacific Theater when the war ended. Arnie returned to Luverne to finish high school.

Arnie married Mickey Thorson. The family moved to Austin in 1950, where they lived until Mickey's death

1896: Long distance telephone service begins expansion

The following appeared in the Rock County Herald on November 20, 1896:

The Northwestern long distance telephone line with headquarters in Skauge's drug store, is completed as far west as Salem. All important towns along this route will be supplied with instruments. Last week the work of stringing the wires from Minneapolis to Fargo, N. D., was finished and as soon as the instruments are placed in position and connections are made with Worthington, the people of Luverne can talk with the people in North Dakota's metropolis. Early in the spring a wire will be strung from Mankato to Winona, thus enabling citizens of Luverne and Winona to converse whenever they choose. The connections at Worthington will be made in a few days and we will then be on speaking terms with people in St. Paul and Minneapolis and intermediate towns.

As you all know, the sale is over. Thanks to all who donated items for the sale and to all the people who bought!

Welcome to our house; firemen open fire hall

Luverne firefighters welcomed the public to tour the fire hall, trucks and equipment Thursday night during an open house for Fire Prevention Week Oct. 9-15. The event included a demonstration of how an automated sprinkler system can save lives until the fire department shows up.

Pictured here, Luverne Fireman Tyler LeBrun talks to fire hall visitors about the sprinkler system demonstration. He said it can take awhile before firefighters arrive at a house fire but it takes only a few minutes for a sprinkler system to be activated by a fire.

The sprinkler demonstration featured a homemade "house" with two "rooms," each containing a couch. One had a sprinkler, the other didn't, and when both couches were ignited, the sprinkled room had its contents intact (albeit wet) while the non-sprinkled room burned up.

By John Rittenhouse

A run of two consecutive wins came to an end for the Luverne Cardinal football team Friday in Blue Earth.

Ridingtheir second two-win run of the season heading into the game, the Cardinals were hoping to keep the momentum going against the Bucs. Blue Earth Area, however, had different plans.

BEA quarterback Logan Jahnke threw for 173 yards and three touchdowns to lead the Bucs to a 20-6 victory.

The game was knotted at seven during the first half, but the Bucs scored a touchdown late in the second quarter and added a fourth-quarter tally to settle the issue.

The drive ended with Jahnke firing a 13-yard touchdown pass to Jonah Legred with 1:25 remaining in the opening

Jumping on Cubs' bandwagon is not in my plans

I'm in the position of being an outsider looking in during the 2016 Major League Baseball postseason. There's no question in my mind that the Chicago Cubs are playoff darlings of the baseball world, and for good reason.

As a franchise that hasn't captured a World Series title in 108 years (1908), the team from Chicago's north side probably deserves to be the sentimental choice for fans without a squad still in contention.

I've been known to throw my support behind the so-called underdogs of the sports world in the past, but this is not one of those times.

Due to a deep-seeded distaste for this ball club that was developed during my youth, I'll never adore the team or the players who inhabit historic Wrigley Field.

My problem with the Cubs is not a case of sour grapes over the miserable season turned in by the Minnesota Twins, who established a franchise record by losing 103 games this year.

The Twins met the fate they deserved by assembling a starting pitching staff that may have struggled trying to record outs against Gopher League competition.

My loathing of the Cubs is an extended family thing that started in the early 1970s.

It's not that I don't like my cousins from DeKalb, Illinois, a suburb of Chicago.

I just didn't buy what they were selling when talking about their beloved Cubs on their yearly nesota home. In fact, I didn't understand what they were bragging about at all. Granted, the Twins were not a very competitive squad during my teenage years early in the decade of disco.

Neither were the Cubs. They did have some great players like Ernie Banks and Ron Santo, but the Cubs never made the World Series during those years and neither did the Twins.

I mentioned that fact to one of my Cub-loving cousins at a family reunion last July and went on to say she is the reason why I dislike her team to this day.

The response I received solidified my distaste for the team and the fans from the Chicago area.

She started rambling about how the Cubs would have dominated the Twins back in those days as well as how her team will prove it when they win it all this year.

Her logic may be flawed, but my loving cousin did remind me why I will be taking sides the rest of baseball's postseason.

I consider myself to be the biggest Los Angeles Dodger fan in Rock County right now.

If the Dodgers don't eliminate the Cubs in the NLCS, rest assured that I'll be throwing my support behind the American League champion in the World Series.

Dragons blank Lac qui Parle Valley Friday

By John Rittenhouse

The Adrian football team ran its record to 5-2 with a home conquest Friday over Lac qui Parle Valley.

The visiting Eagles played hard to keep the game close, but the Dragons wore LQPV down eventually to secure a 20-0 victory.

"They are a scrappy team. They battled," said Adrian coach Randy Strand.

"We were not a crisp team, but we got the win."

The Dragons scored 14 points in a span of 2:08 of the second quarter and that proved to be the difference in the game.

Adrian made a bid to score with its second offensive possession, which turned into a 90-yard drive.

The march ended up being fruitless as the Dragons fumbled into the end zone and the Eagles recovered for a touchback.

Adrian finished what it started during its third offensive possession of the contest.

The Dragons moved the ball 56 yards in 13 plays with senior quarterback Alex Loosbrock capping the march with a twoyard touchdown run at the 3:27 mark of the second quarter.

Dominiq Canales added his first of two extra points following the touchdown to make it a 7-0 game.

LQPV crossed the 50-yard line with its ensuing possession, but the possession didn't end well for the Eagles.

Adrian sophomore Dakota John takes a hit from a Lac qui Parle Valley defender during Friday's football game in Adrian. John ran for 22 yards during a 20-0 victory over the Eagles.

Facing a third-down situation inside AHS territory, LQPV's quarterback tossed an off-balanced pass that was picked off by Adrian's Dakota John on the 35-yard line.

John proceeded to return the ball 65 yards for a touchdown to make it a 14-0 game with 1:19 remaining in the first half.

The teams battled to a scoreless draw in the third quarter before Adrian settled the issue in the final stanza.

Taking advantage of a short punt by the Eagles, Adrian's offense covered 21 yards in seven plays.

Loosbrock registered a three-yard touchdown run at the end of the drive to make it a 20-0 difference with 8:48 left to play.

God is hands-on

There is a story in Genesis 32 in which Jacob wrestles with a mysterious man all night. Jacob is alone and desperate. He is afraid his twin brother Esau is coming for him. Esau has good reason to be upset. The firstborn of the two twins, Esau is the rightful recipient of the birthright and blessing, both of which were manipulated away from him by his conniving little brother, Jacob. Jacob hears that Esau wants to meet him and is bringing with him 400 men! So Jacob prays to God to deliver him from the hand of his brother and sends his servants up ahead with a bunch of livestock as a peace offering for Esau. Then he sends his family on one side of river and for some reason decides to spend the night by himself on the other side. Here is where the mysterious man enters the story, and they begin to wrestle until daybreak. Jacob is a feisty one and has to be bopped on the hip by the mystery man in order for him to come out on top. Jacob demands a blessing from this mystery man, but instead of a blessing, he gets a new name. And then when Jacob asks the mystery man his name, instead of an answer, he gets the blessing he was asking for after all. The mystery man was God and the new name was

Israel. The next day, when Jacob meets Esau, he braces for a fight, but instead his brother runs to him weeping and hugs and kisses him.

I really like this part of Jacob's story. It tells us many things about how God works in our lives. It shows us that God is a hands-on God and doesn't leave us in the same condition as when God finds us.

As in Jacob's case, sometimes God finds us combative and frightened and lonely and desperate and self-destructive. The process of encountering God might be uncomfortable and it may leave a mark (Jacob walks with a limp now) as we come face to face with the things in the past we are ashamed of, but in the process of wrestling with God, we find the strength to ask for what we really need (in Jacob's case, a blessing). We get more than we could have ever imagined from God including reconciliation with those we have hurt. And we get a new name: forgiven and beloved.

God is a mystery, but God's work in this world is real and life-changing. If you find yourself lying awake at night wrestling with past memories of people you've hurt, remember Jacob. God meets you even in the darkness, and can bring reconciliation to any relationship.

CARDS OF THANKS

Perhaps you sent a lovely card, or sat quietly in a chair. Perhaps you sent a funeral spray, if so we saw it there. Perhaps you spoke the kindest words, as any friend could say; Perhaps you were not there at all, just thought of us that day. Whatever you did to console our hearts, we thank you so much whatever the part.

> The family of Erwin DeBoer (10.16-10.20)

Heartfelt thanks to everyone who kept me in their thoughts and prayers as I was recovering. Your cards, visits, calls, flowers, candy, friendship and love were greatly appreciated! Special thanks to the doctors, nurses and staff at Luverne Sanford Hospital and Edgebrook Care Center.
