Halverson sells condemned Sharkee's property for $220,000

City offers more than appraised value in order to close deal; entire four-acre lot to be razed

By Lori Sorenson

Sharkee's owner Dave Halverson has agreed to sell his condemned property on Highway 75 to the city of Luverne for $220,000.

The agreement comes after city officials initiated the process of acquiring the structure and lot through eminent domain.

The abandoned building — once a bar and restaurant — has for two years been in violation of health department and city codes and is considered a public nuisance and a hazard.

Councilwoman Esther Frakes said eminent domain is never the preferred method for addressing blight, but she said it was the only tool at the city's disposal in this case.

"In all my years on the council, this is the one thing that I got the mostcomments about," she said. "People wanted to know when we were going to do something about Sharkee's."

As part of the eminent domain process, the city ordered commercial appraisals, which arrived at an estimated value of $135,000 on the bare lot. This price factored in the demolition costs that would have been incurred.

That amount is based on three other Highway 75 properties -GrandStay, Herman Motors and Kozlowski — that had been redeveloped after demolition.

Mayor Pat Baustian said the city offered Halverson more than the appraised value in order to avoid increased legal costs that would be incurred with the condemnation

He explained that Halverson could order his own appraisal, and if it's not within a certain percentage of what was offered for the property, the city could be liable for all legal fees associated with the sale. "The council gave city staff marching orders to offer a bit more to have it wrapped up and done," Baustian said. He also said it's important to focus on the property's potential value, not the eyesore that it is today. "It's a huge highway frontage lot,"

Baustian said.

Sharkee's and the Mert's Repair property are both part of a tax increment financing district. The city purchased Mert's Repair lot for $160,000 to the east of Sharkee's and sold Marlin Kracht a new lot in the Industrial Park (for $10,000) for his expansion.

The costs for acquisition and demolition of both lots — a total of four acres — will be recouped in the TIF amount, $600,000.

Whatthatmeansiswhoeverbuys the bare lot will pay full taxes on the improved property, but the difference between the current tax amount and

Teals Market takes ownership Dec. 27; Gust to retire after 40 years as grocer

By Lori Sorenson

Glen's Food Center and Glen's Food and Gas have been sold to Teals Market, based out of Cold Spring, and Glen Gust has announced he'll retire.

"He's the hardest-working person I know, so this is well-deserved," Glen's general manager Sherri Thompson said Wednesday. "It will be an exciting transition for us."

Gust told the Star Herald Wednesday night that selling the store and retiring "was the hardest decision I've made in my life."

But he said the store is in good hands with the Teal family.

They're rock solid," Gust said. "Everyone is going to be very happy with the new owners. I know they'll do well."

He said several other grocery businesses have courted him in recent years, but he was "fussy" about whom to sell to.

The new owners had to be community-minded and participate in the community, and they had to retain the Glen's employees and their programs and benefits.

"There's no doubt in my mind they'll carry on the Glen's traditions," Gust said about Teals Market.

The hard part, he said, will be adjusting to retirement after the fastpaced demands of running a grocery

"I went to the store at 2:45 this morning to meet the truck," Gust said. "I'll enjoy some time off, but I'm sure I'll miss all the excitement."

In a personal message in his recent store advertisement, Gust thanked his employees, customers and the community.

"I feel I've been blessed with 40plus years here in Luverne," he said. "I've had the time of my life."

Nearly 90 people work for Glen's Food Center, and about a dozen are full-time. They will meet members of the Teal family at a reception Wednesday night, Dec. 7, in the Blue Mound Banquet Center.

Paperwork for the business agreement was signed Friday, and the store officially changes hands Dec. 27. "They've already been out here measuring for the sign," Thompson said.

She added that customers can figure on the same quality and service they had with Glen's, but they'll also see improvements from a recent switch to a different warehouse.

"We'll have access to a lot more product and we'll have a lot stronger buying power," Thompson said.

Pets meet people Saturday; stolen puppy returned

By Lori Sorenson

The festive gathering of pets and families Saturday morning turned somber after a puppy was stolen from the event at  $\,$ Bomgaars in Luverne.

Several people reported seeing a man in his 50s or 60s leaving the building with a puppy and driving away.

Luverne's Beth Capistran had helped to organize the "meet and greet" for Tracy Area Animal Rescue, and she immediately put out a plea on social media to help find the puppy.

if you know who has it," Capistran shared on social media with a photo of "Holly," the puppy. "She is sick and needs medication. Please share so we can get her back with her siblings." A $400 reward was offered for her safe return, and on Monday, another message was posted after some reports of seeing the puppy and her abductor at a pet store in Sioux Falls.

Holly was turned in unharmed Monday.

"Yesterday we had put out a post asking whoever had it to just bring her to a vet or the Sioux Falls Humane Society — no questions asked," Capistran said Tuesday.

"A middle-aged man brought Holly to the Humane Society this morning saying 'someone had left it' on his step. We are thinking it is the individual that took it as he wouldn't fill out any paperwork."

She said the Rock County Sheriff's office contacted her Tuesday morning after Sioux Falls Animal Control called Luverne. "We had informed them and they knew there was

"Please keep an eye out for it and let me know a police report done," Capistran said. "Of course I started bawling I was so happy."

She said she contacted a pet foster who lives in Sioux Falls and she retrieved Holly immediately.

"She looks good — smells like cigarettes — and needs to get started again on her meds right away," Capistran said. "Her siblings were very happy to see her as were all of us — best Christmas gift ever. I have prayed so hard and I know others were as well."

Search warrant turns up 'burglary tools,' 'stolen items for burglaries'

By Lori Sorenson

Authorities executed a search warrant last week that may be connected to a recent string of burglaries and break-ins in Luverne.

According to a Nov. 30 search warrant filed in Rock County District Court, deputies searched the residence of Michael James Arntson Jr. at 603 1/2 N. Kniss Avenue.

The document notes "shoes for comparison and matching to footprint images gathered outside burglary scenes, burglary tools, and stolen items for burglaries."

The search warrant was executed Wednesday, Nov. 30, on the grounds that items described were stolen, used as a means of committing a crime, and possession of the property constitutes a crime. It also states that the described items constitute evi dence a crime was committed.

According to Sheriff Evan Verbrugge, the evidence has been turned over to the County Attorney's Office for possible charges, but a criminal complaint has not been filed.

There have so far been eight reported burglaries, what Verbrugge calls "crimes of opportunity," because doors and vehicles have been unlocked, and the burglar has simply walked into homes to steal what's available. "We still live in a quiet and safe community; unfortunately there are individuals who will take advantage of that," he said.

"Please remember that if you have anything of value in your vehicle or home, to lock up. This makes it a little harder for that individual to get your belongings. ... Stay safe and if you do hear a noise that does not sound right, call the Sheriff's Office."

Former Loopy's Dollar Store manager Amy Kruger has opened her own business, Four Seasons, in the Loopy's location.

She purchased the store's inventory and has taken over the building lease on East Main Street in Luverne.

She managed Loopy's for 16 years for Pipestone's Gary and Tom Ploeger, who announced earlier this year they were closing their stores including the one in Luverne.

With Kruger's purchase of the Luverne business inventory official Dec. 1, Loopy's became Four Seasons under Kruger's ownership.

"It's been crazy," she admitted. "I have a lot of ideas but I need to liquidate all the Loopy's merchandise

The needed cash flow will allow Kruger to replace the former dollar store items that hadn't changed in years to Kruger's own vision of a store.

While she said she would like to continue the mercantile-like feeling of the former business, she's not interested in continuing the dollar store name or reputation.

As owner she will have full control over what is offered for sale, but Kruger said she would like help from "What is it that brought you into the store? I can see if I can get it for you," Kruger said.

In addition to home décor, Four Seasons offers a changing greeting card selection and expanded selection of party supplies.

While she will carry some cleaning supplies, the inventory won't be as large as it is now.

She said pet supplies won't be replaced once gone, because they are among the items that didn't sell well. "We won't sell food," Kruger said.

The residential street is the emergency route from Highway 75 to Blue Mound Avenue, and that means no stop signs for the entire seven blocks through town.

The 30 mph speed limit signs were removed during a road resurfacing project in 2014, and restriping eliminated parking on the street's south side.

The signs were recently put back in response to residents' concerns of vehicle speeds on Barck Avenue.

Emily Rensink and her husband, Luke, moved from Brandon, South Dakota, to Luverne in June 2015. While their Barck Avenue home provides adequate space for their soon-to-be family of five, outdoor space is lacking.

"We have no backyard," the stay-at-home mom said.

The Rensinks' small front yard is adjacent to Barck Avenue with no sidewalk or on-street parking to provide a buffer between the children playing on the lawn and vehicleswhizzing by on the street.

"People really didn't see them (the children) when they drove by," she said. "They were driving faster than I, as a mother, felt comfortable with."

Rensink noticed other children playing in front yards along Barck Avenue, including a day care. She also saw children walking to school, coming from side streets and using Barck Avenue's north side sidewalk to reach one of two pedestrian lights to safely cross Highway 75 to the school campus.

Pilgrim's Pride buys GNP; deal to close early in 2017

By Lori Ehde

Gold'n Plump has been purchased by Pilgrim's Pride Corporation, headquartered in Greeley, Colorado.

According to an announcement Tuesday, Pilgrim's Pride intends to pay $350 million in cash for GNP Co., which produces Gold'n Plump and Just Bare chicken, based in St. Cloud.

It's not yet clear what the deal will mean tor tne piant in Luverne or the other GNP plants in Minnesota and Wisconsin, and the 1,700 GNP employees. It's the second time in three years Gold'n Plump has been sold.

In 2013 one of the country's largest hog producers, the Maschhoffs LLC, based in Illionois, purchased Gold'n Plump from the founding Helgeson family for an undisclosed price.

Pilgrim's Pride is the second-largest chicken producer in the world with plants and prepared-foods facilities in 12 states, Puerto Rico and Mexico.

The company's primary distribution is through retailers and foodservice distributors. Pilgrim's majority owner is JBS S.A., based in Brazil, the world's largest meat processor by sales.

Background

When IBP (Iowa Beef Processors) left Luverne in January 1998, it employed 370 people, and its closing signaled a low point in morale for Luverne economic development.

But Gold'n Plump offered new hope later that same year. The company immediately spent $2 million remodeling the former IBP plant and started operating with 120 employees.

At one point, Gold'n Plump in Luverne employed more than 250 people with an annual payroll exceeding $6 million.

But in 2003 local employment dipped below 100 when the company relocated its deboning process from Luverne to Cold Spring, taking 140 employees with it.

Since that time, the number has risen to 230 team members, according to GNP spokesperson Lexann Reischl.

The proposed transaction will likely close during the first quarter of 2017 subject to regulatoryreviewandapprovaland closing conditions.

District proceeds with long-range facilities study

Listening sessions start in January

By Mavis Fodness

A Sioux Falls educational design company will work with Luverne Public School officials on the district's comprehensive facilities plan.

Under the proposal, Foster, Jacobs and Johnson Inc., will start work on the plan in January at a cost of $23,320.

For the past four months board members have discussed the district's next steps after it retires a $12.5 million bond levy by this time next year.

The bond, which garnered about $950,000 annually in local property taxes, was used to build the elementary school.

The independent study is the first step in the planning process, which relies heavily on listening sessions to gather information.

"Our listening sessions provide a structured, holistic process for defining needs and priorities while building consensus quickly and efficiently," the proposal stated.

FJJ analyzes four key areas before solutions are offered. The key areas are space, facility and education needs as well as community and stakeholder From January through March FJJ personnel will conduct six listening/feedback sessions with both district staff and community members. They will also collect demographic and financial data.

From April through May, they'll analyze, develop options and offer financial solutions by conducting four additional feedback sessions.

In May and June, four more community and stakeholder feedback sessions will be conducted in the final plan.

Board members would have final plan approval.

A proposal was also received from InGensa Inc. from Plymouth to develop a long-range facilities plan for $40.000.

In other action at the Nov. 22 meeting the board approved:

•the district's "World's Best Workforce 2015-2016" report, which is available on the school website, isd2184.net.

•Adam Geraets as seventh-grade boys' basketball

•Ingrid Gonzalez's request for 20 hours field experience with Deb Ward, special education teacher.

"We're excited for this opportunity," said Andrea Teal, great-granddaughter of George and Pearl Teal who opened the first store in Cass Lake in 1942.

"I've known Glen a long time through the grocers' association, and Luverne is the type of town that fits where we do business. We prefer smaller towns where we can best serve our communities."

Glen's will become the 12th Teals Market under the Teal family. There are Teals Market stores in Albany, Cass Lake, Cold Spring, Isle, Mi-laca, Paynesville and Spicer in Minnesota, two stores in North Dakota — Gwinner and Lisbon, and one in South Dakota, Sisseton. One store, in Lake City, operates under the name Fiesta Foods.

In all, the Teals stores employmore than 800 people.

"We are committed to serving the customers and communities that we are located in," the Teal family writes on their website, tealsmarket.com.

Verbrugge said after his discussion with Rensink he spent several days at varying times observing traffic and documenting speeds, and his data revealed the average speed was 28 mph.

He also discovered 1 out of every 10 drivers were exceeding the speed limit by at least 5 mph.

Reposting of the 30 mph signs was completed as a reminder to drivers of the speed limit, Verbrugge said.

Rensink also talked with city and county officials about lowering the speed limit or erecting "Children At Play" signs.

Because Barck Avenue is a county roadway, a study would need to be conducted by the Minnesota Department of Transportation personnel with local officials accept-

In Luverne the mittens are available at Redeemed Remnants on Main Street. Below is a tub of mittens ready for delivery to Redeemed Remnants, Luverne.

St. John Lutheran quilters turn to mittens

By Mavis Fodness

The Mother Goose nursery rhyme, "Three Little Kittens, They Lost Their Mittens," came to mind as Twila Walker aptly cut out a mitten pattern last week at St. John Lutheran Church, Luverne.

The hand warmers are donated to Redeemed Remnants, a Luverne secondhand store that supports the mission of ATLAS for Life.

In the nursery rhyme the three little kittens lost, found, soiled and washed their mittens.

Walker and other quilt committee members find, wash and sew their mittens, making dozens each year along with quilts that are also donated to missions.

Thirty-seven mittens were made in 2015, according to the group's logbook. For this year that amount has almost doubled to 58 mittens ready for donation.

Committee member Linda Brady said mittens are made from unwanted sweaters and coats.

"We are probably recycling something that would have ended up in a landfill anyway," she said. Brady printed a basic mitten pattern from the Internet and organized the first class on how to make mittens, a task she has since stopped because she couldn't cut the patterns just right.

"I ended up with two left hands,"

Brady admitted. "It was a beautiful sweater but I never did get a right mitten."

Walker has a natural eye for positioning patterns to maximize every scrap for the assembly of a matched set of mittens.

"Twila has been my star pupil," Brady said.

Walker's sewing abilities came from her mother, Betty Elbers, and she honed the skill during her years as a Rock County 4-H member.

She has found enjoyment in taking an ugly sweater and making a nice pair of mittens.

"It's really relaxing," Walker admitted. "It's my 'me' time."

The majority of her creations are completed during the winter weather off-season from her job with W&N Construction.

However, the search for the appropriate sweater material happens year-round. Not all sweaters make good mittens, the women cautioned.

"Blended wool is the best — 100 percent tends to shrink," Walker said. "Cashmere makes the softest."

All sweaters are washed prior to the cutting process.

Inside each of the mittens is a fleece liner.

"It's like making two pairs of mittens," Brady said. "One fits inside the other."

Some mittens include decorative buttons that hold the mitten cuffs together. Many of the buttons come from the sweaters themselves. "Sometimes we will pay 50 cents for a sweater just for the buttons," Brady added.

Members of the evening sewing group are also experimenting using sweaters to make Christmas stockings, purses and throw blankets, which may end up as mission donations also donations also.

"One thing leads to another," Brady said.

St. John Lutheran Church's quilting committee began in the mid-1970s. The evening sewing group was added in 2010 to accommodate members who work during the day. The group meets twice a month.

At left, Linda Brady places her hands on the newly cut "thumbs" for a pair of mittens. Above, a pattern is pinned and ready for cutting out of an old wool-blend sweater.

My husband didn't even make an attempt to help.

Eventually the children would all drift out of the room and I would be left to decorate my (perfect) tree by myself.

Last week I broke down and actually allowed my 28- and 22-year-old daughters to touch the ornaments and place them on the tree. I preplanned the placement, though.

This year's colors are silver, blue and purple. The lights are white. Once I bought a set of colored LED lights from Sam's Club. When I plugged them in, my living room looked liked Vegas, so those lights have been relegated to the yard.

When it comes to the Luverne Public Schools, ALICE is the newest best practice in school safety involving how to deal with crisis situations, including possible intruders or active shooters.

The Windom School District has been working on using ALICE for the past three years.

Their visit to Luverne was to learn what Windom has done to train their entire staff and the student body.

From the local training I received some good feedback.

"The hour was really good. We need to do this in Luverne. I have some great ideas on how to help keep our students and staff safe," shared paraprofessional Sharon Boltjes.

The staff was given great ideas on various techniques that the Windom staff uses with students in all grade

As with all things, the training and thinking continues to evolve with ALICE.

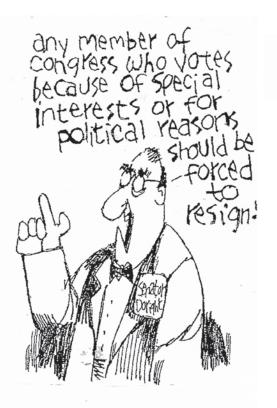

The key is to get started, be diligent, and continue to discuss and train.

"Student and staff safety is priority one," said Elementary Principal Stacy Gillette. "There is nothing more important than creating and having a safe learning environment for our children and staff.

"By empowering all the people within the building, we have the ability to save ourselves and others in the case of an emergency.

"In today's world, we have to be prepared for anything and every-

The Luverne Schools look forward to making ALICE an opportunity to create a better-prepared staff and student body.

Grandson's gift request raises call for help

With Christmas shopping in full swing, I am quickly being made aware of how out of touch I am with what grandsons ages 13, 10 and 7 want for Christmas.

One would think buying the boys clothes would be the easy path to take. It didn't take long to discover this wasn't going to

What size they wear is the easy part. Finding out things like favorite sport, favorite team, favorite player, favorite color, and most important, what brand name of apparel they want makes buying clothes darn near impossible.

So let's move on to something I know even less about that would be video games.

Iwas put in charge of surfing the Web for something called Halo 5 for a Play Station 4 (PS4) something or other.

Well, it didn't take long for me to find what I was looking for and at a price my wife couldn't believe. Come to find out what I was about to order was completely the wrong thing. So I am no longer in charge of finding that Play Station doohickey thing. By the way, that is just fine with me. I am all about shopping the old-fashioned way — in a store.

Just when I thought this Christmas shopping thing was beyond my pay grade, we got our middle grandson's wish list. As a middle child myself, it's good to know the middle kid is still the sensible one.

At the top of his Christmas list (and keep in mind he is 10) is a ceiling fan for his bedroom. Not sure how Santa in going to get that up by Christmas, but I bet middle grandson has a ceiling fan before long.

Grandson number three isn't far behind as far as the sensible wish list goes. He, or maybe his mother, wants a drying rack for his hockey gear made out of PVC pipe.

Not so sure Santa is going to have time during this very busy time of the year to get this done by Christmas. Maybe some local elves would be willing to help Grandpa Santa construct this contraption

Trooper recommends all vehicle windows be clear before driving

Question: The other day at an intersection I noticed a car with the windows so frosted up that the driver had to roll down a window to check for cars coming from my side. What is the law on frosted windows?

Answer: When I received this question, my initial thoughts were of a fatal pedestrian crash that I had been called to. I was the crash reconstructionist at an incident where an elderly woman walking across a busy intersection on her way to church was struck by a driver who was late for work. He didn't see the woman in the roadway, consequently striking and killing her. The driver had not scraped his windshield properly thus had limited visibility.

Minnesota Statute 169.71 subdivision 3 states; "No person shall drive any motor vehicle with the windshield or front side windows covered with steam or frost to such an extent as to prevent proper vision."

While the statute does not mention rear windows I highly recommend that all windows be  $cleared. Too \, many \, people \, remove \, the$ snow from the windows but leave it piled high on the engine hood. If all of the snow and ice is not properly removed, it can be blown from the vehicle when highway speeds are reached. # City crews prepare to demolish blight

By Lori Sorenson

City of Luverne public works employees removed 9½ tons of garbage and household items from the house at the corner of Highway 75 and Lincoln Street last week.

The city recently purchased the centuryold house from Marja Ramage, Townsend, Georgia, for $40,000 after more than a year of condemnation proceedings.

The house will soon be demolished along with the former Culligan building next door to the south.

The city purchased that building from Luverne's Randy Sasker for $55,000, and the Culligan business relocated to the former Palace Video building on West Main Street.

Henning Construction will demolish both buildings for roughly $35,000, and the entire lot will be prepared for future development.

Skie Anderson lives next door to the Ramage property on Lincoln Street and said her view to the west will change dramatically. While the crews were removing garbage from the moldy basement Friday, she confessed she probably won't miss the old house.

"My cat will probably miss it," she said, noting that the back door of the house was always open.

She said her cat and other neighborhood

She said her cat and other neighborhood creatures would come and go from the house as they pleased.

the new tax amount will pay down the $600,000 TIF debt.

After the TIF expires in 25 years, local governments will benefit from taxes paid on the full value of the developed lots.

Baustian said the city's immediate goal is to demolish the Sharkee's and Mert's Repair buildings and prepare the bare lot for future development.

In particular, city plan-they would prefer to have a general mix of retail and possibly a mixed use residential development.

Baustian said there have been several inquiries, but the city is not in negotia-ners have specified that tion with a particular developer at this time.

According to the purchase agreement, which will be finalized at the Dec. 13 City Council meeting, Halverson has until Jan. 31 to remove belongings from the Sharkee's building.

China Inn building not part of Sharkee's-Mert's TIF

According to Baustian the China Inn property owner, who lives in Mankato, is not part of the current TIF arrangement with Mert's and Sharkee's.

But he did say that it's possible the China Inn owner may have been approached by a possible developer about the restaurant being part of a new structure.

"If anything is happening with China Inn, we're not part of those discussions," Baustian said.

Sharkee's background

In April of 2014 Sharkee's closed due to health code violations, mainly basement sewage backup, and on May 26, 2014, the building suffered damage from a fire reportedly set by arsonists.

The arson remains under investigation but is essentially a cold case.

Halverson's insurance carrier, Auto Owners, denied payment on the fire claim, alleging that "someone close to" Halverson — a former employee — had been implicated in the arson.

That individual had been questioned and no criminal charges were filed, so Halverson sued his insurance company several months ago, and that legal action was recently settled.

Tree brings light to FireFly program at Veterans Home

By Mavis Fodness

The Winterfest Festival of Trees display at the Carnegie Center features one tree intended to bring light to dementia residents at the Minnesota Veterans Home in Luverne.

Lorraine Stoel's Christmas tree, called "Granny Squares," is covered with dozens of crocheted creations in various sizes. As a tree topper, she used skeins of yarn.

Her choice of decorations was meant to bring attention to the new FireFly program at the Veterans Home.

"Once I heard about the program, I had to make a tree out of it," Stoel said.

FireFly's purpose is to engage residents in the home's special care unit, especially residents with dementia, a topic close to Stoel's heart, as her late father suffered with the disease.

"I was told they needed 'hundreds' of them (granny squares)," she said. "I have brought them 300 and more to go. Others are also sharing their talents."

So far, the local FireFly program has collected 1,200 granny squares, according to activity director Shirley Conner. And they will accept more, she said.

Residents sort by color, stack by size, and Staff is continuing to receive training about the FireFly Project from Erin Bonitto of Gemini Consulting, St. Cloud. The project was launched as a pilot project in 2014 at the Veterans Home in Silver Bay.

FireFly approaches activity directing from a different angle other than having the director doing all the talking.

'We fly in, get them going and then leave," Conner said. "If we see they are not engaging, we fly back in."

Tree of Lights ceremony greeted by warmer temps

By Mavis Fodness

Temperatures were a little warmer this year for the 50 people who attended the 21st annual Tree of Lights ceremony Thursday night, Dec. 1, in Luverne.

Unlike the mid-teens of last year's event, temperatures Thursday night were in the low 30s for the outdoor gathering, according to organizer Helen

This is the second year Luverne's event has been at the Flag Park on the corner of Highway 75 and Main Street.

After music and a brief reading, volunteers stood in the shadow of a 14-foot balsam fir decorated with hundreds of colored lights — each in honor of or in memory of a loved one.

Each of the 289 names was read aloud during the ceremony.

Female wrestlers take mat for Luverne, AHS

Saturday will go down in history as a special day for the two wrestling programs from the Star Herald coverage

Not only did the Luverne and Adrian squads open the season at different South Dakota tournaments that day. They did so by placing female wrestlers on the mat for varsity competition for the first time in the history of both programs. Luverne's Justyce Ripka and Adrian's Rebekah Walton are facing different situations as members of their respective programs, but both athletes made a positive impact on the mat over the weekend.

Ripka, who competed at 120 pounds for LHS in Flandreau, didn't follow a direct course to her varsity debut.

Although she did compete in Luverne's youth programs in the past, the LHS sophomore served as the team's manager last winter.

"She asked me if she could wrestle this season after our banquet last year," said Cardinal coach Tony Johnson.

"I said, 'Sure you can." Ripka received the opportunity to wrestle on Saturday, filling in at 120 pounds for an LHS athlete who was unable to compete over the weekend.

Ripka took advantage of the situation by going 1-2 for the day, with her victory coming by fall against Flandreau's Damon Bugier.

"She was down 6-4 and started the third period on top," Johnson said.

"She aggressively put a Half Nelson on the kid and flipped him on his back. It didn't take her too long to pin him once he was on his back."

Based on what he has seen in practice and on Saturday, Johnson said he wouldn't hesitate to put Ripka back on the mat in the future.

"She is a tough kid who can hang right with the guys she wrestles with in practice. She works hard, she is a great practice partner and gets along great with everyone in the practice room. It's a long season, and I think there's a good chance we'll need her to help us out again this year," Johnson said. Walton transferred to the Adrian School District last year and decided to join the wrestling program this Unlike Ripka, Walton didn't have past wrestling experience before joining the AHS program.

After losing 10 seniors from the 2015-16 team, Nelson said Walton's arrival on the scene couldn't have been timed any better.

"With our lack of numbers and the situation we are in right now, I'm taking in all comers," said AHS coach Gregg Nelson.

"Rebekah is raw in terms of experience, so she still is adjusting to how we run our practices and is working on the basic wrestling moves. She is working hard and is trying to get better, which is all we can ask of her as coaches."

The effort Walton has put in paid off in Dell Rapids Saturday, where she went 1-2 at 182 pounds.

Her win came by fall as she pinned Parker's Geoff Dunkelberger.

"I didn't get to see her pin because they had two mats in the gym and another mat in a different area, but one of the assistants saw it," Nelson said.

"With the way our numbers are this year, I think she will be wrestling on the varsity pretty consistently this season."

H-BC Patriot boys fall to Knights, Lions

By John Rittenhouse

The Hills-Beaver Creek boys' basketball team took a pair of setbacks in the first week of the 2016-17 season.

H-BC dropped a 17-point decision to Russell-Tyler-Ruthton in its home opener Thursday before falling by 35 points to West Lyon Saturday near Larchwood, Iowa.

H-BC hosts Heron Lake-Okabena Tuesday.

LQPV spoils Ellsworth's home opener

By John Rittenhouse

The Ellsworth boys' basketball team opened play for the 2016-17 season by hosting Lac qui Parle Valley for a nonconference clash Saturday.

After a competitive first 13:15 of the game that featured two lead changes and two dead $locks, the visiting Cardinal s\,put$ everything together to win the game handily.

LQPV outscored EHS 48-18 in the game's final 22:45 to secure a 68-37 victory.

It didn't look like the game would end with a 31-point difference early in the contest.

Zach Buntjer gave EHS a 2-0 lead with a field goal and the Panthers led 4-3 when Brandon Kramer drained a two at the 15:17 mark of the first half.

The Cardinals countered with a 5-0 run to open an 8-4 cushion only to have EHS knot the score at eight when Kramer converted a field goal at 13:47.

A 5-0 spurt by LQPV was  $countered by a {\it five-point surge}$ ending with Kramer sinking two free throws to knot the score at 13 at 10:43.

The Cards scored the next seven points to open a 20-13 advantage, but the Panthers trimmed the difference to three (20-17) when Buntjer registered a field goal at the 4:45 mark of the first half.

The rest of the opening half belonged to LQPV, which went on an 11-2 run to sport a 31-19 advantage at the break.

The situation didn't get any better for the Panthers in the second half.

After LQPV scored the first five points of the stanza to up the lead to 36-19, EHS did trim the difference to 13 points (36-23) when Carter Boyenga converted a field goal at 13:13.

The Cardinals, however, proceeded to outscore EHS 32-14 the rest of the half to prevail by 31 points.

it to them for Me and for yourself." Matthew 17:27

The outcome of this story isn't about Peter finding the right spot at the right time, but rather about his trust and obedience.

BUILT ON A ROCK

By Martha Fick, Good Samaritan, Mission Effectiveness

Sometimes people worry about the future, whether or not they went to the right school or married the right person. Some wonder if they are working at the right job or even if they have made too many mistakes in the past to ever get things straightened out.

God isn't calling us to fix all those things. He is calling us to trust Him and obey Him. The One who put a coin in a fish's mouth and swam the fish right to Peter to pay the taxes can surely take care of you and Loving Lord, we give to You our ups and downs, our struggles and mistakes. We trust that You alone can make the outcome of our lives beautiful. In Jesus' name, Amen.
